Chief Gives Thanks for Children's Help

Pearson Won't Sit on Sidelines

Fired-Up Liberals May Act Monday

No-Confidence Motion Could Force Election

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals, bolstered by a new leader, may challenge the Progressive Conservative government on its trade and economic policies Monday by moving a want-of-confidence motion that could lead to a general election.

The oddity of the prospective move is that the Liberals actually don't want an immediate election fight. They hope the Conservatives may be able to squeeze through with a narrow victory.

Time is required by the Liberals to build up a strong political organization behind their new chief, Lester Pearson.

But it is understood also that Mr. Pearson, showered with an avalanche of congratulatory telegrams, wants the party to move aggressively immediately. He wants to make clear the party will no longer sit on the sidelines in parliamentary debate.

If this aggressive action leads to an early general election, said one party source, "then we are willing to take the risk."

The final decision on party tactics will be taken at a caucus Monday morning.

Later in the day the government will move a motion of supply to consider departmental estimates. It may be at that time that the Liberals will introduce their first want-of-confidence motion of the current session.

CCF HOLDS KEY

Almost anything could happen. The CCF may not like the terms of the Liberals' want-of-confidence and side with the government. This would give the Conservatives a fairly strong victory. But if the margin is slim, Prime Minister Diefenbaker might seek an early election, taking the initiative.

No changes are contemplated by Mr. Pearson in the so-called shadow cabinet of the official opposition.

Mr. Pearson will continue as party spokesman on foreign affairs. Former opposition leader Louis St. Laurent will head a committee dealing with justice.

H. LLOYD HENDERSON

'Pearson Can't Win Right Now'

OTTAWA (CP) — Defeated Liberal leadership candidate H. Lloyd Henderson—who polled only one vote—said later he doesn't think the new voice can lead Liberals to victory.

Given time, he said, Mr. Pearson could re-invigorate the party. But if an election were to be called soon the task would be too much for him.

Kootenays Want Action

'Pay $5,000 Reward To Catch Bombers'

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — The new mayor of Nelson says the British Columbia attorney-general's department should post a reward of up to $5,000 to help catch the persons responsible for recent bombings and bomb-plantings in the Kootenay and Boundary areas of interior B.C.

Discussing the recent planting of home-made bombs in three Kootenay theatres and the derailing of a train Wednesday after a bomb tore up the track at Grand Forks, Mayor T. S. Shorthouse said:

SERIOUS PROPORTIONS

"The recent bombing and the attempts to terrorize the people of the Kootenay and Boundary areas has reached very serious proportions.

"In my opinion, the attorney-general's office should be asked to post a reward of up to $5,000 to assist in the apprehension of the criminals."

Mayor Shorthouse was also asked to comment on the proposed move of 2,500 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors to Russia.

Police have said they are including the fanatical Sons of Freedom in their investigations of the bombings. The group has been blamed in the past for many such incidents. Four Freedomite representatives are now in Moscow, negotiating for a move of members of the sect from the Kootenay area.

HELP THEM TO GO

The mayor said: "I feel that if these people are of the opinion that they might receive better treatment in the country of their origin than they are receiving here, I think they should have full co-operation in their exodus from all governments.

"I believe that is the Christian thing to do."

In this he was joined by M. B. Ryalls, president of the chamber of commerce here, who said he personally believes that "if there is any chance they can go to Russia, we should do everything in our power to see that they do go."

Old Folks Object To Staying Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's old people have complained about advice urging them to stay off the streets at night.

Coroner Glen McDonald made the suggestion as an attempt to help cut the accident rate among old people. He called Vancouver streets the graveyard of senior citizens.

But the citizens have complained that the suggestion segregates them and it's a defeatist attitude.

Of 30 persons killed in city traffic accidents last year, 28 were over 54 years of age.

Fuchs Due Today

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UP)—A British expedition led by Dr. Vivian Fuchs is within 56 miles of the South Pole, the halfway mark in a pioneer effort to make a trans-Antarctic trek. He is close enough to make arrival possible today.

The U.S. Navy made plans to fly Sir Edmund Hillary to the Pole to greet Fuchs. Rear Adm. George J. Dufek, commander of U.S. operation Deepfreeze, said he would make the trip, too, and invited nine newsmen to go along. The plane will leave from the U.S. base at McMurdo Sound.

To Spot Missiles

U.S. to Build Arctic 'Eyes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force will begin construction, probably within a few months, of three ballistic missile detection stations in the Arctic. Using ultra-range radar, the stations could spot Russian missiles within minutes after their launching in Eurasia.

Negotiations with at least two companies for the $189,000,000 building job—which does not include cost of the equipment—are understood to be under way in anticipation of swift congressional approval of an appropriation request.

'OUTSIDE U.S.'

Testimony before the House armed services committee was released Friday by chairman Carl Vinson (Dem. Ga.). In it, Vinson said the purpose of an $189,000,000 item was to construct "three detection centres" at locations "outside the continental United States."

The three detection centres will be spotted about 1,000 miles apart in the general area of the present DEW line.

Big Cats Crazed By Fire

MANCHESTER (UP) — Firemen battled a blaze at the Belle Vue zoo here yesterday while two riflemen mounted guard over lions and tigers driven into snarling frenzy by the flames.

One crazed lioness, 17-year-old Judith, had to be shot during the hours-long battle against the fire, which burned out a huge structure adjoining the "big cat" building in the zoo, one of Britain's largest.

Vaccine Was 'Live'

Polio Virus Firm To Pay Victims

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—A jury of four men and eight women last night absolved Cutter Laboratory of charges of negligence for allowing live polio virus to get into its Salk vaccine, but found it guilty of breach of warranty and awarded $139,000 damages to two child victims.

The jury returned its verdict after about 16 hours of deliberation to wind up a test trial lasting eight weeks.

The Berkeley Pharmaceutical firm was sued for $365,000 by the parents of two children who were stricken with polio after taking injections of Cutter vaccine in 1955.

The victims were Anne Elizabeth Gottsdanker, 8, of Santa Barbara, Calif., who sought $300,000, and James Phipps, 4, of Monrovia, Calif., who asked $65,000 damages.

The jury declared it had found that the laboratory was not negligent "either directly or by implication" in its preparation of the vaccine since it followed faithfully the procedures set forth by the developers of the anti-virus.

On the breach of warranty count, however, the jury said it found "we have no alternative but to conclude that the defendant made a vaccine causing the plaintiffs to come down with polio."

The jury awarded the Gottsdanker child $125,000 damages and her parents $6,500 for expenses. The Phipps boy was granted $14,000 with $1,800 going to his parents for expenses.

The simultaneous trial of the two suits is being used as a test case to determine the future of a number of other suits pending against the company.

World Parley Hopes Grow

Closer to Summit

WASHINGTON (UP) — Llewellyn E. Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, has been called home for consultations about a possible new "summit" conference between President Eisenhower and Soviet leaders, the state department said yesterday. Thompson was expected to leave Russia late next week.

OTTAWA (BUP) — Soviet premier Nicolai Bulganin has appealed for Prime Minister Diefenbaker's support in calling a summit meeting in time to stop the cold war from turning into a hot war.

In a 7,000-word communique, released yesterday by the prime minister's office, Bulganin outlined a nine-point agenda for a possible meeting between heads of all NATO and Warsaw Treaty countries.

The suggested areas of discussion:

Immediate banning for two or three years of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.

Prohibition of atomic and hydrogen bombs and weapons of mass destruction.

Creation of a zone in Central Europe free of atomic weapons.

A non-aggression agreement between NATO and Warsaw treaty countries.

Reduction of foreign troops in Germany, NATO and Warsaw pact countries.

Agreement on preventing sudden attack.

Broader trade relations.

Stop the propaganda war.

No interference in domestic problems of Middle and Near East.

LONDON (UP) — Laborite leader Hugh Gaitskell yesterday endorsed Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin's call for a summit conference.

Gaitskell charged Macmillan muffed a chance to end the cold war in his note answering a Bulganin note of Dec. 11.

It Looked Like A Million

TORONTO (BUP) — Peter Crosby, former husband of film star Denise Darcel, was described yesterday as a financial wizard who in a 20-minute transaction deposited and withdrew a single cheque for $100,000 so many times that it made a bank account appear to contain more than $1,000,000.

Crosby, 34, was committed for trial by jury on six charges of stock fraud. He is accused of maniuplating stock of the Mica Co. of Canada, which he formerly headed. James G. Hinde, a Royal Bank of Canada accountant, testified that Crosby built a mythical account of $1,100,000 with the flurry of activity involving a single cheque for $100,000.

Centennial Event

Vintage Cars To Tour B.C.

Ancient autos of the carbide lamp and whip socket variety, piloted by goggled, linen-dustered drivers, will tour 680 miles from Victoria to Fernie in May as a centennial event.

The tour, sponsored by the B.C. Centennial Committee, will be launched here May 16 and is expected to take about a week.

It will be run along the lines of the famous London to Brighton vintage car races in England, although it is "a run, not a race," L. J. Wallace, centennial committee chairman, said last night.

Some of the cars will go the whole route; others will join the tour at various communities and go along part of the way. An age limit, or rather a youth limit, will be set (somewhere in the 1920s) on eligible vehicles.

Vehicles will be entered on a selective basis.

Prizes, for the Victoria-Fernie jaunt and for community-to-community participation, will be awarded.

Mr. Wallace said from response already received there were many cars throughout the province of ancient vintage whose proud owners would be delighted to enter in such a colorful centennial event.

TCA Will Fly To Continent

MONTREAL (BUP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines president G. R. McGregor yesterday announced TCA will inaugurate flights to Switzerland and Belgium this year.

Flights to Brussels will begin April 2; to Zurich May 17. The service will begin with one flight a week, he said, increasing to two weekly flights June 3.

'Women Are Spoiled'

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian women are "spoiled," says Mrs. H. R. Cresner from Surrey in England.

Mrs. Cresner, travelling with her husband's exhibition of 19th century paintings, said here:

"You can't really blame them, but women are so spoiled with what, to me, are luxuries. To them, they are absolute necessities.

"Of course, most people in Britain, or in Europe for that matter, don't think of having anything until they can afford it.

"Here, you think about having something and you have it, whether you can afford it or not."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

REMEMBER that radio quiz show in which the "first prize" was a $50 discount on a television set?

Several people telephoned to report that they had won "first prize" on the same show.

One of them was a 12-year-old boy who waited 15 minutes to phone in with the answer to the question, because the family already had a TV set, and he preferred to have second prize — some steak knives, I believe.

He won first prize too. Apparently, this is one of those happy contests in which everybody wins first prize.

What about the prize itself —the $50 toward a television set which the sponsor promises?

Recently this column published the report of a lady who had been high-pressured into admitting a television set into her home after she had won one of these "prizes."

The day after the column appeared, I had a telephone call from the owner of a store.

"We are obviously the store you refer to," he said.

"Are you?" I replied.

"The figures that woman supplied to you are not correct," he said.

"I'll check those figures," I told him.

The check produced some interesting results. A dealer who handled that make said that the manufacturer's suggested retail price for the particular model was not $350, but just under $290. There was no doubt of that, he said.

Add $14.50 sales tax and $2 registration. That makes $306.50. Add $63 finance charges. That makes $369.50.

By this reckoning, the lucky prizewinner earned herself the right to pay $380 for a $370 television set.

What's Wrong with That?

He pointed out that the value set by some dealers on that particular model TV set was $350. Deduct the $50 prize from that. Add $15 tax and $2 registration. That makes $315. Then finance charges which come to $63, not $30 as my informant said.

That brings the amount to $380. And the amount which my informant contracted to pay—$16 a month for 23 months plus one month at $12 —came to just $380.

What was wrong with that? the man at the store wanted to know. Hadn't he given her the $50 discount, as he promised?

May Be Worth Less

If you add the $50 discount that she was supposed to have won, that brings the total price of that $290 television set up to $430—including finance charges, of course.

It is possible, in addition, that the set is worth less than the $290 suggested price.

The store owner who phoned me said that he gave away an ash tray to all prizewinners.

However, some of the "prizewinners" who firmly refused the sales pitch tell me that they are still waiting for their ash trays.

One of them was a 17-year-old girl who was thrilled at winning a prize and much disappointed when her mother informed her that she did not intend to buy a new television set, $50 discount or not.

She is still waiting for her ash tray, too. This kind of program raises a lot of false hopes and causes a lot of disappointments. It is only a sales gimmick. No matter how you add up the figures, the "prizewinner" earns nothing but the right to buy the merchandise at regular prices or much higher.

Kelowna Man Among Richest

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (CP)—The brother and sisters of the late Dr. John T. Williamson are gathering here to take over the Canadian geologist's vast diamond holdings.

It was announced that under terms of Dr. Williamson's will, 800 shares in the Mwadui diamond mine are left to his brother, Percy Boyd Williamson of Kelowna, and a sister, Mrs. Alex R. Millar of London, England.

A third sister, Mathilda Williamson, said in St. Sauveur des Monts, Que., that she plans to leave shortly for Tanganyika to learn the terms of her brother's will. She said she is coming here "as an heir."

Percy Williamson already held 300 of the 1,200 shares in the mine. His increased holdings will make him one of the world's richest men.

He and Mrs. Millar announced they do not intend to sell their holdings. Another shareholder is I. C. Chopra, the late owner's legal adviser and friend, who [illegible] Williamson, who arrived here earlier this week, will be the new company directors.

City Policemen Ask 21¾ Per Cent Hike

A wage increase of 45 cents an hour for all ranks listed, amounting to a boost of 21¾ per cent, was requested by Victoria City Policemen's Union in a meeting yesterday with the police commission.

The requested amount would bring first-class constables about $436 per month, and at a rough estimate would increase annual police salaries by about $87,000 over the current $400,000.

MAINLAND EXAMPLES

He pointed out that Vancouver police now receive $397 a month, and West Vancouver police have just settled for exactly the same pay scale. New Westminster police, he added, have also been offered $397 but have not yet reached settlement.

Const. Shandley pointed out that the previous scale in West Vancouver was $357 a month —two dollars less than the current Victoria scale — and the New Westminster rate is also about $357.

The union also proposed a retirement gratuity of one month's pay, and a death benefit of six weeks' pay to dependents of officers who may die while on the force.

Inclusion of Easter Monday as an additional statutory holiday was also proposed, as was issue of service ribbons as required by war veterans entitled to wear them.

The union suggested that detectives be issued with short barrel pistols and spring holster for plainclothes use, to be provided from normal replacement.

Granting of three days' compassionate leave to officers for death in the immediate family, and five days if travel outside the province was necessary, was also requested.

ENGINEERS' DEMAND

Police station engineers, who met earlier with the commission, asked for $30 a month increase, which their representative said averaged 11 per cent. Senior engineer now receives $287.40, or $1.66 an hour.

Police commission took both union requests under consideration.

An additional 38 entries this week has boosted the ship's company to a high of 123.

Previous new-entry class of 23 has now qualified on its initial training course. Tied for top honors with 95 per cent were cadets Dennis Secret, Raymond Meek, Dennis Cubitt, Michael Gragory and Gregory Cheeseman.

Gunnery—PO Barry Bittner, 84 per cent, and AB James Geib, 80; seamanship A—AB Robert Price, 74, and OS David Lachmund, 63; seamanship B —PO George Dufour, 99, and PO Peter Reid, 90; boatwork—OS Douglas Thomas, 76, and LS F. R. Gilmore, 74; signals—OS A. R. Roger, 96, and OS Terry Elworthy, 89.

George Dufour and Keith McLeod were confirmed as petty officers and David Strachey and Norman Robillard as leading seamen. Named acting leading seamen were F. R. Gilmore, Larry Chattell, Robert Price, Frank Lee and Douglas Thomas.

At the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow parade, Keith Hancock was promoted to leading seaman and Michael Roberts, who is among cadets sailing with the RCN to the Far East, was qualified in the rank of petty officer.

Oil Barrier 'Unjustified'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government has informed the United States administration that it cannot find any justification for American limitations on oil entering from Canada.

Surely it is unwise to jeopardize this two-way trade which works to the benefit of both countries," Canada told Washington in a formal note of protest over the U.S. government's request that the American petroleum industry voluntarily trim oil imports by 15 per cent.

Columbia Diversion Threat Hitting Home

U.S. Begins to Worry

NEW YORK (BUP)—Americans are starting to get seriously concerned about Canada's threats to divert the waters of government in Canada actually the Columbia River into the Fraser River.

So far the concern is noticeable chiefly among leaders of the Democratic party and advocates of big government power projects like the Tennessee Valley authority.

The Eisenhower administration has been slow to react to reports that the Diefenbaker may try to carry out the Fraser River diversion scheme proposed by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's chairman of the International Joint Commission.

BED WITH POWER BOYS

The reason for the administration's slowness to react is obvious—it doesn't like getting into bed with the public power boys, especially with Sen. Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon and the Pacific Northwest Public Power Association.

The Republicans are for private power and their man, ex-secretary of the interior Douglas McKay, who is also an ex-governor of Oregon, is the American chairman of the International Joint Commission.

McKay so far has refused to take a stand on the McNaughton's diversion scheme, saying Canada and the United States are to start negotiations on the whole matter again at the next commission meetings in Washington in April.

DOES NOT SEE

But the Democrats appear convinced the Eisenhower administration does not yet see what they regard as the twin menace of the Fraser River diversion. Senator Neuberger and the public power advocates in the Northwest have charged repeatedly that General McNaughton's plan not only may ruin the Columbia River salmon fisheries but might wipe out or at least greatly diminish the utility power dams worth billions of dollars in the Northwest built both by the U.S. government and private companies.

They say the Northwest will face another power shortage by 1965 even if Canada does not divert the Columbia River into the Fraser—thus grabbing most of the power potential of the vast system for herself. They see McNaughton's scheme as a threat to throttle the industry of Oregon and Washington.

Too Much Attention to Dates

Reds Want Look Behind Calendars

BERLIN (UP)—East German Communists yesterday demanded an investigation of the calendar industry, which they described as a hotbed of reaction.

They said calendars devoted too much attention to the days, weeks and months of the year and not enough to Communist doctrine.

They also are being used to sneak capitalist propaganda and Western scenery into Soviet zone homes, the Communists charged.

And what is worse, they said, they tell East Germans what day Easter and Good Friday and Palm Sunday fall on, but not the anniversary of "the glorious Soviet October revolution" or "our liberation day."

The criticism in the official party newspaper Neue Deutschland demanded that the Communist party and the ministry of culture see to it that "socialist" calendars are produced next year.

The paper said East German manufacturers made the big mistake of thinking people bought a calendar to find out what day it is. Everybody knows, it said, the real purpose is to show daily the difference between the way of life and prospects for the future in East and West.

"There is a difference between portraying life and the building of socialism in the German Democratic Republic and between publishing pictures of flowers or scenery," it said.

Scurrah Honorary Head Of Boys' Service Club

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday agreed to become honorary president of a new service club for teenage boys, being organized by a Mount Tolmie cubmaster.

Ten boys have already applied for membership, Allan W. Smith, 579 Whiteside, said yesterday.

HELPING CHILD

Decision to form the club, entirely separate from the Scout organization, was made by Mr. Smith following success of a drive to help the Durocher family of Sooke and particularly four-year-old Beverley Durocher, who was badly scarred in a fire which destroyed the family's home some 11 months ago.

A working committee consisting of Mr. Smith, Dave "Smokey" MacDonald, city constable Walter Caldwell, Larry Lamoureaux, Gordon Ball, Ken Johnson and Bill Wendland, is ironing out details.

The club will operate as an ordinary boys' club until the executive hears of cases where help is needed.

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

The advent of stainless steel flatware has been a great boon for modern Canadian homemakers. It is available in a wide variety of attractive designs suitable for the most fashionable and discriminating hostess. Made in Canada from stainless steel containing approximately 8% Inco Nickel, such flatware has a hard, corrosion resistant surface that is easy to keep clean and lasts for a lifetime. Stainless steel flatware is only one of hundreds of products of Canadian industry made with Inco Nickel.

There's INCO NICKEL in modern Canadian-made stainless steel flatware

And practically all of it contains Inco Nickel, because most of the stainless steel used in flatware is made in Canada with Inco Nickel.

Inco Nickel starts out as raw ore at Inco's mines near Sudbury, Ontario. Down in the mines, workmen blast out the nickel-bearing ore. It is milled and smelted at Copper Cliff. Then it goes to Inco's refinery at Port Colborne. A Canadian steel company uses this refined nickel to make stainless steel. In the form of strip, this stainless steel goes to Canadian flatware manufacturers where it is fashioned into knives, forks and spoons.

All these operations help provide jobs for thousands of workmen. In this way, Inco Nickel helps stimulate the growth and development of industry in Canada.

Why Wait for Spring?

WITH the possible exception of exterior painting, there are very few jobs around homes or business premises in Victoria which cannot be done just as well — maybe better — in January as in June. For that reason Victoria and other Vancouver Island centres are singularly suitable places for the "Do It Now" campaign organized by the winter employment committee of the National Employment Service as a means of providing gainful work for men temporarily out of work due to seasonal and other factors.

At this time of year there are innumerable jobs waiting to be done in the way of construction, remodelling, renovation and repairs. From habit and for no other valid reason these are customarily left until the arrival of spring, when there is a big clamor for workmen to undertake jobs which could just as conveniently—and often more cheaply—have been spread over the winter months. In many instances it is a lot more convenient to get work that disorganizes routine finished before spring, clearing the way for the annual cleaning.

This year when seasonal lay-offs are somewhat above normal it is to everyone's advantage to get as many suitable projects as possible under way immediately. As the federal department of labor points out, more employment means more pay cheques to keep the community going. The demand for materials is not as heavy now as it will be later, which means that deliveries are more prompt. Tradesmen and contractors, not so heavily pressed as in spring and summer, can give quicker service and do a better job, which means economy in the long run. Increased employment also helps to relieve the tax load by lightening expenditures for welfare and relief.

For self-interest as well as the good of the country, the current slogan, "Why wait for spring? Do it now!" is well worth heeding. It's just a matter of bringing men and jobs together.

Thinking of the Future

TUCKED away in a municipal brief filed with the provincial government this week was a proposal that the province establish a water resources commission, to develop sources of supply and provide trunk mains to population centres. At first thought this might seem a duplication of the province's present machinery in the water rights and licences board, precipitation studies and so forth. The intent of the resolution, however, plainly goes beyond that. It seems to point to the future when the provision of drinking and irrigation water for larger centres of population may have become an acute problem.

If one understands the proposal aright, it implies the creation of a separate provincial authority to take over where existing joint district water boards (originating under municipal control) leave off; and with development functions to explore and provide for the eventual needs of the future. Although the creation of more provincial "authorities" with rights superior to that of the municipalities may prove contentious, there is something in the resolution which invites study. Some populated regions in British Columbia have already begun to experience a shortage of water, consequent upon the amazing population growth.

Duncan and its associated municipal neighbors on the east coast of Vancouver Island have had to re-examine water sources several times in the last few years. Greater Victoria is managing at present, but the need of more water for irrigation purposes on the Saanich Peninsula and in similar outlying areas long has been apparent. In the Gulf Islands the issue is a lively one, while in other parts of the province there seems to be a sharp gradation between districts with abundance of water and others where limitations already have to be imposed. Here, then, is a field for legitimate enquiry, and the Union of B.C. Municipalities' resolution should serve to draw attention to it on the basis of future needs.

Saving American 'Face'

OPINION in the United Kingdom has been stirred these past few weeks by the suspicion that official U.S. atomic energy interests have prevented the disclosure by Britain of a great new scientific success. Enough has been printed to indicate that British scientists have achieved a method of containing hydrogen power through nuclear fusion—which would be a tremendous step forward in peaceful application of this new type of energy—but the full extent of this success has been withheld.

The accusation is that the United States has until now imposed a veto on release of this information because it might damage further American prestige badly dented by the Russians' Sputnik achievements. Under a British-American agreement concerning nuclear study the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission is able to make such a ban stick. Political cartoonists across the line seem to agree with British opinion, for they have depicted the U.S. atomic energy chief as sitting on this British secret while blandly denying any obstruction.

An official joint announcement on the matter is scheduled for later this month, and the feeling is that the British success will be soft-pedalled to suit American sensitivity, with emphasis being placed on the U.S. advances in this field. This is quite possible. America is seeking desperately to save its scientific "face" in view of recent Soviet achievements. The British government must bear some blame, however, for concurring in any agreement that would seal its lips merely to bolster American pride. So long as the U.S. withholds its hydrogen military secrets from Britain, as it does, the latter should have no compunction about disclosing its hydrogen discoveries for peaceful use.

As one of the two "Big Brothers" of the contemporary world, America sometimes seems as arrogant towards its allies as Soviet Russia is to its satellites.

Too Many Pitfalls

If re-assessment carried out in this vicinity the past two years is any criterion, B.C. is a long way from equalization. It definitely does not exist here.

We hold that although the assessor's manual is interesting in its detail, it quite obviously leaves too much margin for human error. Secondly, the basic standard of "market value" used, which the manual accepts as the most "objective" means of setting assessment values, presents too many pitfalls for assessors on the route to equalization.

No More Hospital Bills

When B.C. people were responsible for their hospital bills the arrears became so large that the continued existence of many hospitals was threatened.

Now the government pays the people's bills from part of the revenue from a 5 per cent sales tax, imposed on all consumers, firms as well as individuals, and the financial position of hospitals has never been better.

The fight to hold costs down applies to hospitals today as to all forms of collective and private endeavor, as we are passing through serious inflationary times. No one, however, would put back the hospital clock to the day when residents paid—or tried to pay—their hospital bills.

As It Should Be

It is not too often that police officers get the kudos they deserve for a job well done. We think that the Campbell River detachment of the RCMP have done, and are doing, an excellent job in law enforcement, quietly, efficiently.

May we also point to the justice of our law courts here, "the sentence to fit the crime" tinged with leniency for first offenders especially. British justice as it should be.

Community Work Bee

Renewed support for the work which the Parksville and District Community Society is endeavoring to carry out must be gratifying to the directors of that group.

Particularly encouraging was the recent work-bee on the beach-front, when many volunteers, including members and non-members, made good progress on the new circular drive.

Machinery and manpower, backed by gasoline provided by service stations and the cash donations of local merchants, were successfully combined on this worthwhile project.

Another Race Track?

The proposed Class A exhibition at Colwood is linked closely with a new racetrack. In North Saanich there exists a race track whose operations have come to mean a very great deal to the business houses of Sidney. If the track suspended operations, the commercial loss to this community would be most serious.

Can lower Vancouver Island support two race tracks? Local residents do not know the answer to the question but there is serious concern that the proposed development at Colwood would sound the death knell of race meets in North Saanich with consequent shifting of commerce from Sidney to the Victoria area. Many readers devoutly hope that this factor also is one of the details being hammered out before the federal government lands near Colwood are turned over for development by exhibition and racing interests.

"Well, I got that in, all right"

Other Days

By FRANK KELLEY

WHEN maritime troubles occupied considerable space in coast papers of the 1930 years, it was frequently stated that "nothing like this ever happened in days gone by." It was common talk, too, during the more hectic occurrences at certain intervals, when some authorities acquainted with waterfront matters would point out that history was really repeating itself as the time passed and that nothing new was being attempted or enacted, and that similar conditions had prevailed in other days. Their story was to the effect that there was a time when the San Diego waterfront had been a place where the labor developments during the 1930 decade would have seemed like a convention of high school teams.

That was back when Grover Cleveland was, for the first time, at the head of U.S. administrative affairs in the late 1880s, when the labor situation was one of considerable tensions. In fact, it got so lively in the California port that there was talk of the possibility of the port witnessing the arrival of a British man-of-war to protect the lives and property of British subjects, according to a newspaper story from which these notes were taken, covering what was taking place among square-rigged ships during 1887. The story was credited to one Jerry MacMullen. It appeared in the San Diego Sun in 1937.

* * *

It recorded that San Diego Bay was full of sailing craft, as well as trouble. The Sailors' Union was busy organizing through a committee of 50-75 men, all with persuasive ways and hard fists. The steward of the British bark Miltiades happened to be ashore one night. Returning shipboard, someone fired a pistol shot through his leg. When several crowded about him, it was agreed he was the wrong man. Taking him to a rooming-place, they gave him some strong drink and sent him back to his ship with an apology.

The German bark Salisbury had some non-union men aboard during the lean thirties who were on the committee's list. Her skipper, however, seems to have been somewhat of a tactician. He had some large chunks of stone ballast set on the rails, from which a slight push would send them crashing into the committee's boats. He also hauled out two brass guns, loaded them and placed them where they could sweep the decks, all of which measures were effective.

* * *

Also on the roster of ships at San Diego was a trim little British bark named Doria. Her master was Captain R. Storey. Some of her crew were supposed to be non-union; so one night, according to the story, several boats pulled up alongside Doria and demanded the non-unionists, causing Storey to present a pistol, when he was seized from behind and the gun taken from him.

That action promoted fireworks, as the men were British subjects and not accustomed to being molested in a foreign port.

Then it was also rumored a war-vessel was getting ready at Esquimalt for a visit to San Diego and to local police, who had not been keeping order, the possibility of British sailors landing with muskets and bayonets "at the ready," was not pleasant thinking. So police policy did an about-face when councillors posted a reward of $50 for each and every one who had been molested when the ships Miltiades and Doria were raided.

Reports from Ottawa

THE huge picture of Mackenzie King you've been seeing on TV this week is more than just an appropriate decoration for the hall in which the Liberal convention was held.

To those who have traced the currents and eddies in the Liberal political pot for the last dozen years, the hand of the old master is evident in a lot of what has been going on in the Ottawa Exhibition's horse ring. And this is especially true of the convention's main business, the choice of a new leader.

What brings this home to me is a run-through of the files of this column and an earlier one which started in June of 1946. For I was one of the first to see in Mike Pearson a future leader of the Liberal Party. The first, I believe, was Mackenzie King himself.

* * *

On Oct. 26, 1946, I wrote: "Fleeting speculation that Mike Pearson may succeed Mackenzie King isn't as fantastic as it sounds. It is definitely not outside the bounds of possibility."

At that time Pearson was still a civil servant, having just been appointed under-secretary of state for external affairs. But also at that time Louis St. Laurent was bent on getting out of politics. It wasn't until the following February that King finally prevailed on him to stay.

I noted that Pearson might move from undersecretary to secretary, as King had done in the Department of Labor many years earlier—and this, of course, is just what happened two years later.

"That would make him a member of the cabinet and put him in line for either the prime ministership or the leadership of the Liberal Party—which may or may not be held by the same man after the next election," I wrote.

Pearson was somewhat embarrassed by my predictions. As I recall, he grinned his boyish grin—he was then 48—and remarked to me that civil servants weren't supposed to have political futures.

* * *

When King took Pearson into the cabinet in September, 1948, on the eve of the old master's retirement, I noted that "it left the Martins, Abbotts and Claxtons a little dismayed. Pearson, they realized, could be a strong contender for the mantle of the aging St. Laurent when the time came . . .

"It seemed almost as if the old king, lying on his political death bed, was busy arranging the order of succession for a generation ahead."

And on July 9, 1949, I wrote in comment on St. Laurent's election victory that "It could be said that King won the election by remote control. And there are some who wonder if he may not have prepared for the winning of the next one by paving the way for L. B. Pearson's entrance into the cabinet as minister of external affairs.

"It could be that Canada will not be so prosperous when the next election approaches. If so, Pearson may be the man.

"Pearson would be realistic enough to follow the swing of public opinion in a depression. He might be acceptable to a country moving left. The more orthodox ministers might not be.

"At this point it would be interesting to know what King thinks."

And interesting now too. But perhaps not too surprising. And if, when the result of the vote was announced from the stage of the Coliseum on Thursday night, you saw the corners of Willie King's mouth twitch a bit, reminiscent of the beginnings of his cherubic smile, you probably thought the brilliant TV lights were playing tricks.

I'm not so sure it was the lights.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

IN the pullman chair car I sat next to an elderly man, obviously a prosperous businessman, who astonished me by sitting carefully reading all the want ads in the paper. You cannot help but observe your neighbors in chair cars, even if you are not a newspaperman. I had seen him go through the news and editorial pages with various reactions of interest. Then he came to the want ad pages, and he shook the paper out and went to it, systematically. He appeared to read every item. He took the most absorbed interest in the help wanted, jobs wanted; in the articles for sale, and articles wanted. He went on right to the personals.

No man in the chair appeared to want a job or need any articles less than he. There is no mistaking an old man of wealth.

When he had finished reading, he turned his chair to me and pleasantly opened conversation. It was not long before I was asking him about his obvious interest in the want ads.

He flushed slightly and pulled his chin while he reflected on how to reply to me. Finally, in an embarrassed way, he said:

"Well, I'll tell you, young feller. I've noticed in recent years that as I grow older, I grow a little smug, a little comfortable. I find that if I read the want ads, especially the jobs wanted, and the articles for sale, and articles wanted, I get a sort of intimate picture of how a lot of people are doing in life. It makes me more aware of my own good fortune. It inclines me to be a little more interested in people I might otherwise forget."

From there on, my train journey proved highly interesting.

With the Classics

For thence—a paradox
Which comforts while it mocks—
Shall life succeed in that it seems to fail:
What I aspired to be
And was not, comforts me:
A brute I might have been,
but would not sink

What is he but a brute
Whose flesh has soul to suit,
Whose spirit works lest arms

To man, propose this test—
Thy body at its best,
How far can that project thy soul on its lone way?

NATO's Task

Not Just By Words

By W. N. EWER, from London

MANY of the comments on Mr. Macmillan's broadcast on January 4 have treated it as if it were a "diplomatic document." They have asked: what is the precise meaning of this phrase? What could be the possible significance of this word?

That is the procedure appropriate enough in the case of a note to another power, a draft agreement or of a formal communique. But to apply it in this case is to miscoheeive the chararter and purpose of such a broadcast in British practice. There broadcasts are not, and are not intended to be, ex cathedra declarations of policy. They are, as we say, "talks." A speaker is "talking" to his "fireside audience" almost informally. He is giving an over-all picture, not a detailed exposition.

That is what the prime minister was doing — telling his listeners the lines of the British government's thinking on this central problem of relations with the Soviet Union, digressing to deal with some aspects of that problem which happens to be uppermost in the public mind at the moment.

* * *

His main thesis—from which there is little or no dissent in any responsible quarters in Britain—is that there are two ways to preserve the peace which are "not opposed but parallel, complementary." The one is to maintain the strength of our defensive system and of the alliances on which it is based. The second is "the way of negotiation, of conciliation."

To do the first without the second would be to accept the idea of an indefinite, dangerous and costly stalemate. To do the second without the first would be to expose Britain and its associates to grave peril.

This twin approach has been the cardinal principle of British policy for the last decade, whatever party has been in power. The failure of the Foreign Ministers' Council meetings in 1947, the declaration of the "cold war" at the foundation of the Comintern, the Berlin blockade, the Communist usurpation in Czechoslovakia, were the danger signals which brought about the formation of NATO and the rearmament of the NATO countries. Nor has anything happened since to persuade these countries that these are superfluous precautions.

* * *

But, though they are still essential, the prime minister said that the "second way is just as important . . . We intend to go on seeking for some agreement with the Russians for disarmament and for the relief of tension in the world."

Note that Mr. Macmillan said "go on seeking." A myth has been created that during these ten years the Western powers have done nothing but rearm and build up their military potential; that they have done nothing and have attempted nothing towards finding an agreement; that, on the contrary, they have repeatedly failed to respond to Soviet initiatives. This is the reverse of the truth.

It is the Western powers which have again and again taken the initiative. The Berlin Conference of 1954 was their proposal. The idea of a "summit conference" was first suggested by Sir Winston Churchill; an invitation to it went to Moscow from the American, British and French governments.

The renewal of attempts to reach an agreement on disarmament came from President Eisenhower. True, none of these came to anything. But that was not for want of trying or of initiative on the part of the Western powers.

* * *

This, then, was the main theme of the broadcast. On the one hand we dare not, in the state of the world today, relax either our guard or our vigilance. On the other hand, in the way of negotiation, "we must not give up; we must try again." And, added the prime minister, "we are always ready to use new ideas and try new methods," while "carrying with us the methods of the past."

It was in this context that Mr. Macmillan spoke of a "solemn pact of non-aggression" as a possible help to the reducing of tension. Attention became focussed on this idea. It was hailed in some quarters as implying a new British proposal. It was criticized in others as implying a unilateral departure from the agreed NATO policy. In fact, it was neither.

The prime minister himself noted that it "has been done before." I have no doubt that he had in mind an earlier Western initiative, the meeting of the foreign ministers in Geneva in the autumn of 1955 when he himself was the British foreign secretary.

* * *

But much has changed since 1955. It might be worth trying again in the context of a wider agreement. The feeling of the NATO Council in Paris was that the time has come for a new exploring of possibilities. It may succeed. It may lead nowhere; "peace cannot be secured just by words. We need deeds as well." But the search for possibilities of agreement has to go on.

That was the whole theme of the Macmillan broadcast.

Letters to the Editor

Cheap Politics

Listening to the acceptance speech of Lester Pearson, I was sorry to see him descend to cheap politics, in saying that the present economic recession and the resultant unemployment in Canada is due to the seven months of Tory government.

This situation was forming while the Liberals were still in office and they knew it, and results from too closely tying up our economic life with the U.S.A. while our Commonwealth and overseas markets stagnate.

The present unemployment figure in the U.S. is the largest since 1949. Surely no one is fatuous enough to suggest that our Tories are responsible for that also. But Canada is naturally feeling the backwash and until our present government can vivify the overseas markets we will continue to feel it. They deserve our support, not brickbats.

(Mrs. T. A.) JANE AIERS.

PO Box 87, Sidney, B.C.

Too Centralized

Mr. Harry Young is doing a good job in pressing for that college in Victoria. We are going to require a lot more college facilities in B.C. if we are going to keep up with the Russians.

I see that the Liberal convention in Ottawa has gone in favor of free university education in Canada. That means a lot more colleges like that in Victoria. We should have colleges in the Okanagan and in the central part of B.C., like Prince George, as well as in Victoria.

The present University of B.C. is becoming too centralized. It should be broken down into smaller units. Victoria should proceed to build up its own college, instead of being urged by President MacKenzie that everything should go to its office at Point Grey. As I say, UBC is becoming too centralized for its own good. Premier Bennett should give other parts of B.C. a chance.

Farmers Neglected

Now that Mr. Steacy, our minister of agriculture, has settled all the problems of our railways for them (I have no doubt the CPR and the CNR will be duly grateful), perhaps he may be able to find time to attend to the problems of, say, the Island dairymen, one of the many groups of would-be farmers whose ability to make a livelihood has been virtually destroyed by the neglect of his department.

Or does Mr. Steacy share the expressed views of his deputy that all small or part-time farmers should be driven out of agriculture anyway?

Risk Without Profit

It is surprising to read in today's (Jan. 15) Colonist that the mayor of Victoria intends to approach the Dominion government to guarantee the bonds of a private company to finance a fast ferry from the vicinity of Victoria to the mainland. It seems another instance of the taxpayer being invited to underwrite the risks without participating in the profits. The proposal is quite different from subsidizing a utility service to a remote place.

If the only object behind the scheme is a more convenient ferry, has the mayor fully explored the possibility of a private company providing an automobile air ferry such as the one operating across the English Channel? The initial capital would be less, the airports exist, and an air ferry would provide a much more flexible service than one big ship.

One might suspect that Mayor Scurrah's real intention is to stabilize employment in the local shipyards and to provide work in the construction industry in building the necessary terminal docks for a big ship.

If so, why not say so and let the taxpayers judge the case on its merits?

HOWARD GREEN
". . . sure he is"

OTTAWA (CP) — The editorial pen of John Green was used Friday night against his father, Works Minister Howard Green.

Son John, publisher of the Agassiz-Harrison Advance in British Columbia and one-time telegraph editor of the Colonist, had written an editorial about the government's farm price support bill.

A. B. Patterson (SC, Fraser Valley) quoted freely from it during debate on the bill.

Wrote John: "The bill was "completely useless." It left farmers "subject to the whims of politicians and civil servants." The government had promised parity prices but now was "trying to pass off a worthless counterfeit." The farmers probably wouldn't be any worse off than before "but the Conservatives certainly are."

Father Howard, obviously knew what it was all about as soon as the newspaper's name was mentioned at the start.

He grinned broadly and called out to Mr. Patterson: "He didn't understand the bill any better than you do."

Later a reporter asked Mr. Green whether his son is a Conservative. The reply: "Sure he is."

If You're in Debt, You're Normal

Are You a Good Risk?

By PETER BRUTON

Maybe it's one of those oddities of human behavior but the fact is the average Canadian nurse, office worker and school teacher is a better credit risk than the average lawyer and judge.

There are, of course, good and poor pay customers in every employment classification and credit granters know the only sure way of anticipating the paying potentialities of a prospective customer is through learning how he has met his commitments to other merchants.

★ ★ ★

Nurses Rate Higher Than Judges, Lawyers

Statistics are the hard, cold facts of experience and the average is where the worst of the best meets the best of the worst. But here is how the various occupations rate, creditwise.

The figures given are the percentage of persons in the various job classifications who can be expected to pay their debts on time.

Here is the list:

Occupation	Average
Business executives	90.9
Accountants and auditors	90.1
Retail managers	89.9
Chain store managers	89.9
Physicians and dentists	89.3
Chemical and civil engineers	89.2
Farmers	88.7
Armed services officers	87.7
Office workers	87.1
University professors	87.0
Railway clerks	86.8
Skilled factory workers	86.8
Railway workers	84.7
Hotel and motel managers	84.4
School teachers	83.7
Clergymen	82.5
Nurses	82.5
Federal, provincial, municipal officials	82.1
Retail sales workers	81.5
Printers	80.1
Lawyers and judges	78.3
Traveling salesmen	77.0
Plumbers	76.9
Policemen and firemen	76.4
Carpenters	74.8
Guards and watchmen	74.3
Truck and bus drivers	71.6
Armed services (officers excepted)	71.0
Unskilled factory workers	70.7
Janitors	70.5
Plasterers	69.7
Barbers	68.1
Coal miners	67.7
Laborers	67.5
Bartenders	63.8
Musicians	63.2
Domestic servants	63.1
Painters	61.8
Farm laborers	60.3

This survey was carried out by the Credit Granters' Association of Canada earlier this year—and if you think your occupation has a bad credit rating, consider newspapermen, who didn't even make the list.

Never Quite Enough

Hungry India Eating More

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The goal of self-sufficiency in food, which India has been pursuing, appears to be a mirage that eludes the country just as it seems within grasp.

Successive food ministers have prophesied that, with increasing food production resulting from improved agricultural methods, irrigation schemes and reclamation of waste land, India should shortly reach self-sufficiency.

But although the annual increase in population has been taken into account, insufficient allowance hitherto has been made for the fact that, with each small increase of prosperity in the villages, the peasants themselves begin to eat a little more, thereby cancelling out much of the effect of the increase in production.

No, Thanks

Subliminal advertising is name given to the kind you see but don't realize you see. On television screens advertising is flashed on long enough to register on viewer's mind without viewer knowing it. Investigating effects, U.S. Congressman W. A. Dawson and Senator Charles Porter subjected themselves to test. After a couple of hours they weren't aware of the line—and they didn't want any popcorn.

'Sons' Welcomed

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russian authorities have been "very sympathetic" to a proposal for the mass migration of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors to Russia from Canada, visiting representatives of the sect said yesterday.

The four sect leaders travelled here from British Columbia to discuss the proposed migration.

"We can no longer live in Canada as a religious group," a spokesman said. "Religion is not tolerated there."

'Not Fighting, Just Scuffling'

Two men who "weren't really fighting, just scuffling," were fined $15 each in city police court yesterday.

George Ducharm and Mervin Bittman, both of Work Point Barracks, pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance by fighting in a public place—Fisgard Street—between 1 and 2 a.m. Thursday.

"It wasn't in a public place, sir," said one of the men. "It was on the street."

Magistrate Henry C. Hall explained that the street is, indeed, a public place.

Stanley R. Stewart, 911 Caledonia, was sentenced yesterday to 21 days in jail for three traffic offences. He had pleaded guilty to driving while under suspension, careless driving, and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Magistrate Hall pointed out to Stewart that he had been convicted only last November of careless driving and failing to remain at an accident scene.

Roland Weir Will Lead Sooke Board

A new executive was chosen and new trustees installed at the Sooke School Board's inaugural meeting this week.

Roland J. Weir, trustee for Belmont, was elected chairman. John S. Williams turned down the chairman's seat this year after leading the board for three years.

Aubrey Hull was elected vice-chairman and chairman of the management committee.

Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Isabelle Reader, finance and public relations; John Martin, buildings and grounds; John Williams, teacher salaries.

The board decided to buy a 5.2-acre school site north of the Trans-Canada Highway off Millstream Road.

Yachts Seek New Quarters

Capital City Yacht Club, based at Canoe Cove Shipyards, Sidney, since 1947, is considering establishing a new base at other marinas in the area or constructing its own facilities.

Fleet captain Leslie Cole said last night the club has been unable to come to terms with the new management of Canoe Cove Marina.

"They make it pretty severe for the average yacht club member, prices are so very high," he said.

EDUCATION MINISTER LESLIE PETERSON

Royal Commission To Probe System

A searching inquiry into British Columbia's educational system will be made by a three-man royal commission appointed by the provincial government yesterday.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the inquiry was felt desirable "in the light of the grim international competition which lies ahead."

Appointed commissioners were Dean Sperrin Chant, of the faculty of arts and sciences at University of B.C., chairman; John E. Liersch, executive vice-president of Powell River Company; and Riley P. Walrod, general manager of B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd., and general manager of the B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

"No school system is so good that it cannot, and should not, be improved," said Mr. Peterson. "We want to make sure we are supplying the best raw material to our universities."

The commission, he said, would not inquire into school financing systems but he mentioned that the terms of reference were "very broad."

"I am under the impression that B.C. has a good school system," he said. "Much of the criticism of education today is not as applicable to B.C. as other jurisdictions.

Effect of Sputniks

"There are those who express the view that the advent of Sputniks I and II demand a drastic revamping of our curriculum to place greater emphasis on science and mathematics. In this province the curriculum of our elementary and secondary schools is constantly under review in order that it may meet the changing needs of our times," he continued.

He said a number of changes were being made to the curriculum of students following the general program as opposed to the university program. These will become effective next September and will result in the pupils doing more work in mathematics and science.

"We are endeavoring to encourage greater effort on the part of the student and to improve quality of performance and achievement in both the university and general programs," Mr. Peterson stated.

"In addition . . . the length of the school day and the school year should be reviewed and examined in the light of present conditions," he continued. "If an extension of our school day or school term is deemed desirable, can the length of our high school program, in terms of years, be decreased? Can the disciplinary situation in our schools be improved and, if so, by what measures? Can greater utilization be made of our school facilities? Can further economies be effected in the construction and operation of our schools without impairing their effectiveness and efficiency. These questions are merely some examples of the kind of problems the terms of reference envision."

'Why Not Investigate That, Too?'

Financial Angle?

A second royal commission to study the financial part of the education system in British Columbia was suggested by Greater Victoria School Board chairman Mrs. W. W. McGill last night.

She said she was glad to hear Education Minister Leslie Peterson's announcement yesterday of appointment of a three-man royal commission to make an inquiry into the B.C. education system.

"But, I hope a second commission can be set up to study education finance," Mrs. McGill said. "Both subjects are large enough to require a separate commission for each."

G. F. Goulson, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said he believes all teachers will be in favor of the commission studies.

"Any careful investigation into improvement of the education system is a good thing," Mr. Goulson said.

Mrs. A. B. Thompson, school trustee for Saanich and immediate past-president of the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, is also in favor of the commission.

"I believe it will clear the thinking of the lay people on education," Mrs. Thompson said.

On Mr. Peterson's further announcement that the department of education is going ahead with plans to introduce more mathematics and science into the general high school program next fall, Mrs. McGill said the education curriculum must embrace both technical and liberal knowledge.

"Knowledge without a keen sense of ethical, moral and spiritual values can be a frightening thing," Mrs. McGill said.

Kilburn Story Still a Mystery; Report Executive Approval Won

Skips Defending Champs

BULLETIN

Colin Kilburn has been traded to the Edmonton Flyers for forward left wing Tom McArthy and centre Denis Olson, it was announced late last night.

Directors of the Victoria Cougars changed their minds last night after apparently deciding to let the public know their reasons for the dismissal of manager Colin Kilburn at an executive meeting last Sunday.

Press and radio reporters were invited to attend a special meeting of club directors but the first action after 19 of the 29 directors had checked in was a motion to bar reporters from the meeting. It was put by Dr. Gordon Grant and seconded by Gordon Carter. Only executive-director Don Ross voted against the motion.

Attending the meeting were directors Dr. A. Reid; president; Wilf Ritchie, vice-president; Fred Mackenzie, manager; Madame E. A. Vautrin, Bill Dillabough, Bud Hocking, Doug Fletcher, Johnny Alexis, Max Zabel, Wilf Burnett, Harold Husband, Dr. B. Kjestad, George Kaiser, Sam Swetnam, Dr. Grant, Carter, Ross, Bill Menzies and Dr. Lloyd Bassett.

Dr. Reid reported to the Colonist this morning at 12.15 that the directors present "had supported the action of the executive in the dismissal of Colin Kilburn as manager of the club."

LEFT TO EGAN

He also reported that all player transactions have been left in charge of coach Pat Egan, who will be able to make any deals he thinks will help the club without having first to get the sanction of the directors.

There was no report of a rumored deal with Edmonton. It has been reported that the Flyers offered the Cougars two starry 23-year-old forwards for the balance of the season for Kilburn's services.

The players in question, it is said, are Denny Olson, who has 17 goals and 13 assists for the 32 games he has played in the Western Hockey League this season, and leftwinger Tom McCarthy, who has eight goals and 18 assists for 20 games and who was once considered the brightest prospect in the Detroit Red Wings' farm system.

EVEN TRADE

It is understood that the deal called for Olson and McCarthy to return to the Edmonton club at the end of the season and for Kilburn to again become Victoria property. It was also rumored that there was a chance that the Cougars could get McCarthy for Kilburn on an even trade with the Flyers sweetening the deal by sending Olson here for the balance of the season.

Reports on the Edmonton deal are unconfirmed but if the players in question were McCarthy and Olson, most fans will be wondering why the Cougars requested 24 hours in which to make up their minds. Egan was not available for comment after the meeting and whether or not Kilburn will be in the line-up at New Westminster tonight was not known.

Vancouver Island Final

Favored Nanaimo Rink Handed Double Defeat

Two successive defeats for the Western Canada champions featured play at the Victoria Curling Club yesterday as the eight Vancouver Island finalists played the second and third draw of the round-robin zone finals.

Mrs. Marg Fuller of Nanaimo, skipping the same rink which won the Western title last year at Saskatoon, was beaten in the afternoon draw by Mrs. Edna Souther of the Alberni Valley Curling Club, 10-6.

In last night's game, Mrs. Doreen Ferguson of the AVCC made a fine shot with her last rock to defeat the defending champion, 7-6.

Mrs. M. Beattie (V)	—	3	+1
Mrs. E. Souther (AV)	—	3	1
Mrs. D. Ferguson (AV)	—	3	1
Mrs. B. Gilday (D)	—	3	1
Mrs. C. Cooper (V)	—	1	3
Mrs. M. Fuller (N)	—	1	+3
Mrs. R. Berkey (D)	—	1	3
Mrs. M. Holm (N)	—	1	3

Mrs. Fuller was counting two when Mrs. Ferguson went into the hack for her last shot. Both counters were in the four-foot ring but Mrs. Ferguson made a double and while her rock rolled out she had a rock at the edge of the four-foot which was enough to win.

Mrs. Fuller's rink, however, is by no means out of the running. There were no unbeaten rinks after the first three draws, four rinks having 2-1 records and the other four having one victory each from the three games.

Two rinks, Mrs. Mary Beattie of Victoria and Mrs. Souther, were unbeaten after two draws but both lost on the third. Mrs. Beattie, who had won her first games easily, was outscored, 18-10, by Mrs. Min Holm of Nanaimo on the third draw. Mrs. Holm, winless after two games, scored a five-ender, two four-enders and a three-ender in the free-scoring game. Mrs. Souther was beaten by Mrs. Beulah Gilday of Duncan, 9-7.

Halter to Control Canadian Football; Leagues Decide to Run Grey Cup Show

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian professional football took two major steps Friday—appointment of a national commissioner and taking over of complete organization and control of the Grey Cup final.

Appointment of G. Sydney Halter, 52-year-old Winnipeg lawyer, as national commissioner was approved late Friday afternoon by the eastern Big Four union. The Western Interprovincial Football Union will follow suit Saturday and his appointment remains only a formality when the two leagues sit together Sunday in the windup of their three-day closed sessions here.

The two professional unions earlier Friday agreed to set up immediately a two-division Canadian Football League. The Big Four will be known as the eastern division and the WIFU the western division.

The pros will maintain their membership in the Canadian Rugby Union this year at least and they do not expect trouble from the CRU in taking over the ticket distribution and all other arrangements of the East-West classic scheduled for Vancouver on Saturday, Nov. 29.

One eastern delegate said the CRU, which possesses the Grey Cup, and which has had control and organization of the sudden-death playoff since the trophy was donated to amateur football in 1909, will allow the pros to continue playing for the historic cup.

"There may be opposition from some quarters within the CRU, but we feel confident that we will continue to play for the Grey Cup," he said.

Halter, whose salary as commissioner has been fixed but not disclosed, told the professionals he would take the position on condition that he be given the same wide powers he possesses in his present position as commissioner of the WIFU and that he be allowed two assistants—one in the East and one in the West. These conditions were accepted.

This means he has complete control over teams as a whole, club executives, managers, coaches, players and field officials. He also is sole arbitrator of all disputes.

Judge Allan Fraser of Ottawa, who resigned earlier this year as commissioner of the Big Four, had authority over paid personnel only. He did not have the power to fine or discipline unpaid team executives.

"It is generally agreed that we don't wish to break away from the CRU, which after all has governed Canadian football since 1882," one delegate said. "But we do feel that the pros must run their own show and that is what we are going to do."

The Big Four said it would not go for an interlocking schedule, partial or full, this year but that it would give "serious consideration" to the idea for 1959.

There was a wide divergence of opinion on the import question. The Big Four adhered to its earlier decision to name 13 imports 48 hours after a club's third game of the schedule, with only 12 playing in each game.

The WIFU adopted a motion for 12 imports and 10 changes after the Oct. 15 deadline after rejecting two amendments, one calling for 14 imports and 14 changes and another one calling for 16 imports and no changes.

Colorful Pin Meet Scheduled Feb. 1 By Civil Servants

By JIM TAYLOR

One of the major fivepin extravaganzas of the year comes up at Capital City Bowling Alleys Feb. 1 when the civil servants gather to decide their champion bowlers.

The event, certainly among the most colorful staged by the fivepin fraternity in a season, is known officially as the B.C. Civil Servants' Inter-Departmental Fivepin Tournament. However, this time only Vancouver Island bowlers will be competing for the R. W. Mayhew Trophy.

Entries have been received from Port Alberni, Ladysmith and Nanaimo, and there will be 50 teams in action during the one-day event. Shifts of 10 teams will roll at 9 a.m., 12 noon, 3 p.m., 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Prizes will be presented at a banquet in the Hotel Douglas on Feb. 11.

On Feb. 2 the spotlight shifts to Strathcona Bowling Alley for the team events of the 18th annual city tenpin championship tournament.

Manager Roy Begg has new pins waiting for the event, and a wide-open fight for prizes is expected. With the handicap system in use, a "hot" series by average bowlers could put them well in the running, and the top bowlers, whose handicaps are low, won't be able to afford many misses if they expect to stay in contention.

Ron Wilson, secretary of the sponsoring Victoria Tenpin Bowlers' Association, said last night that entries for the two-day tournament are coming in at "a fairly good rate," and that he expects a bigger entry than last year.

A total of 38 entries were received for team events last year. There were 63 doubles teams entered, and 102 bowlers competed in the singles.

Deadline for entries is Feb. 1.

Maybe Herb Chandler has decided he intends to win the singles. He got in a sizzling warm-up series in the senior league at Gibson's Bowladrome last Tuesday, shooting 644, six pins behind the city high-three, with single games of 221 and 237. Wilbur Webb also broke into the charmed 600 circle with a 604 (242) in the mixed league.

Other high bowlers at Gibson's were Ted Bowcott, 592; W. Davis, 582 (225, 206); George Motion, 579 (201); Bob Bystedt, 572 (202); Wilf Smith, 569 (211); Wally Noonan, 558 (209); Len Murrant, 554 (204); Norm Johnston, 553; Ken Munn, 553; Ron Coulter and A. Gvcharick, 550; Jimmy John, 546; D. Shaw, 541, and Bill Coates, 541. Mary Porter, 531; Mary Bashforth, 514, and Iris Murrant, 508, led the ladies' league.

On the fivepin front at Gibson's, Stan Smith came through with a smashing 939 (353, 312) series to take city honors for the week.

Nearest to him at Gibson's was R. Bird with 792. He was followed by Cec McRae, 788 (360); Larry Griffin, 771; E. Smith, 765; Reg Waggoner, 757; Keith Todd, 736; Ken Smith, 735; Harold Gent, 725; H. Smith, 730; H. Quinsey, 753, and R. Vater, 719.

High men in the tenpin leagues were R. Manson, 386 (222); Ron Wilson, 363 (203); Rocky Naismith, 545, and Bill Oakley, 544. Ollie Corbett had a 223 single.

★ ★ ★

Eddie Lubanski, Detroit beer salesman, is well ahead after six matches of the 16-match final round of the All-Star Tournament in Minneapolis. Lubanski shot an 801 to take three games of four from Carl Richard of St. Louis last night.

Defending champion Don Carter trails Lubanski in Petersen points, 122.45 to 116.25. Carter was seeded into the 16s.

Top fivepinners at Capital City were Jack Plant, 812; Dave Lambrick, 780; Dave Allan, 734; M. Hallam, 713 (326); F. Lister, 702; Sam Smitherman, 701, and Vic Mawer, 708 (305). Notable singles were rolled by Jim Edwards, 305; Eva Davies, 308, and Harvey Thompson, 301.

Fred Worsley cracked the 900 barrier at Esquimalt Bowladrome with a 912 (385) series, and also rolled 776. Stan Bell had 797 (328); Tony Bishop, 786 (313) and 705; Gary Roskamp, 785 (339); Jean Owens, 762; Bob McLeod, 753; Gerald Kirker, 754; Lea Lungrin, 740; Ethel Wilson, 736; Norm Kane, 724 (342); Bill Smith, 719; Al Larsen, 713, and Harry Sisterson, 708.

★ ★ ★

Overlooked last week was Wilf Smith's fine triplicate tenpin series of 182, 182, 182, at Gibson's, qualifying for an ABC badge. Fred "Boom-Boom" Barker of the Colonist Nite-Side League also qualified for a badge last Monday with three games of 167.

UBC Beaten

Victoria B's, apparently coasting to easy victory, had a scare thrown into them at Oak Bay High School last night before they finally defeated UBC Thunderettes.

Esquimalt Dockers did some accurate shooting from the foul line last night to come from behind and down Belmont, 37-31, in their Inter-High School Basketball League game at Victoria High School.

Belmont held the lead until the final five minutes, then committed a rash of fouls that allowed Jerry Horn's Dockers to move ahead and finish their schedule with a 7-1 record.

Dockers are tied for first place with Vic High Totems, who routed University School, 78-4, in the second game of the night. However, the Totems hold one game in hand and can wrap up the title with a win over Mt. Douglas next Friday.

Garry Millard scored 12 points for Esquimalt and John Batcheller sank 15 for Belmont. George Brice and Tom Collett each picked up 14 points for Totems. Reider Getz got both University School baskets.

Oak Bay Greens, paced by Dick Sparks with 13 points, downed Mt. Douglas, 42-21, in action at Mount View last night. In the feature game, Mount View Hornets defeated North Saanich, 46-26, as Dave Black scored 24 points.

Vikings Meet Dairy Queens In Exhibition

Victoria College Vikings, who recently dropped out of the Senior "B" Men's Basketball League, will play Dairy Queen Eds, top team in the league, in an exhibition game tonight at Victoria High School.

Vikings were originally scheduled to play Vancouver YMCA, but have received notice that the team would be unable to make the trip.

Victoria College girls play UBC Thunderettes in the opener at 7.30, and the feature game gets under way at 8.30.

Next games: tonight, VICTORIA at Seattle; Vancouver at St. Paul (inter-division).

Seattle Americans, sparked by scoring leader Guyle Fielder, exploded for four unanswered goals in the third period at Seattle last night to defeat New Westminster Royals, 4-2, and move within a single point of the Royals in the western division of the Western Hockey League.

About 2,000 fans watched Duke Edmundson and Dick Van Impe give the Royals a 2-0 lead in the second period. Then the Americans went to work.

Val Fonteyne scored from Ray Kinasewich and Fielder with 34 seconds gone in the third period. Fielder tied it up from Kinasewich at 8.05, then sent the Americans ahead with his 14th goal at 14.40, with Edmundson in the penalty box. Bill McFarland got the insurance goal at 16.46.

In the eastern division, Edmonton Flyers grabbed an early lead and held off Calgary Stampeders for a 4-3 victory at Edmonton.

Flyers, showing 3,397 fans their fastest hockey in recent games, got two goals from centre Len Lunde and one each from Dennis Olson and Tom McCarthy. Lunde's goals were his 24th and 25th.

It Was a Riotous Evening For Boxers, Fans, Referee

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The scheduled main attraction was relegated to virtual obscurity at Olympic Auditorium Thursday night when 4,200 fans went daffy over the preposterous goings-on in the 10-round semi-main event.

It was this latter engagement that produced these items:

1. One fighter was knocked down between rounds.

2. At one point, both combatants were on the floor simultaneously.

3. The referee was attacked in the ring by a spectator.

4. The matchmaker eventually got into the ring himself—to protect the referee.

5. The fight ended when one of the participants fell off his stool.

Gladiators in this one-ring circus were Alvaro Gutierrez of Mexico and L. C. Morgan of Youngstown, Ohio.

The first hint that this was no ordinary affair came in the fourth, when Morgan delivered a right that left Gutierrez in a horizontal position. As Morgan stepped back to admire his work, he tripped over his own feet and fell backward to the canvas.

The crowd was going looney as the fighters got up, almost simultaneously, just before the bell that ended the round.

Seconds later Morgan stumbled across the ring and let Gutierrez have it with a right to the chin. Gutierrez didn't go down. But the exhausted Morgan did, and had to be carried to his corner.

Morgan came back and managed to score two knockdowns in the fifth, but he was badly spent when it was over.

The many Mexican fans in the crowd were enraged at what he'd done to their hero before the fifth round started. As the sound and fury mounted, a burly unidentified Latin charged into the ring and started hammering referee John Thomas. Several ring-siders hopped to the official's defence, and matchmaker George Parnassus joined them.

Debris was flying through the arena when the bell for the sixth round sounded.

But it was all over. Morgan tried to get off his stool but collapsed before he could take a step. It was a technical knockout for Gutierrez.

Bruins Recall Negro; Bionda Sent to AHL

BOSTON—Willie O'Ree, a rugged left winger, will become the first Negro ever to play in the National Hockey League tonight when he lines up with the Boston Bruins against the powerful Montreal Canadiens.

The slumping Bruins called up O'Ree from their Quebec City farm club as a replacement for the ailing Leo Labine. Earlier yesterday the Bruins optioned defenceman Bob Armstrong and Jack Bionda to Springfield and returned goalie Al Millar to Quebec.

The 22-year-old O'Ree, a native of Fredericton, N.B., has scored seven goals and added 11 assists in 32 games with Quebec this season. Last season with the Aces, O'Ree had 22 goals and 12 assists for 34 points in 68 games.

There have been comparatively few Negroes in hockey. Stan Maxwell, a Negro, is a team-mate of O'Ree with Aces. Two brothers, Ossie and Herbie Carnegie, and Manny McIntyre formed an all-Negro forward line several years ago with Sherbrooke.

Dodgers' Hunt for Home Ends; Wininger, Rosburg Share Lead

Walter O'Malley's long search for a home field for his transplanted Dodger baseball club ended Friday in the 101,000-seat Los Angeles Coliseum.

After a frantic day of secret huddles, an agreement was reached allowing the Dodgers use of the biggest park in baseball for the next two years.

It was O'Malley who broke a long deadlock by offering a proposal that adds about $100,000 a year to the $200,000 he offered the Coliseum commission earlier in the week.

Shelley Could Stand Only So Much Abuse

TIJUANA, Mex. (UP)—The PGA added insult to bodily injury yesterday when it fined Shelley Mayfield, member professional, $100 for failing to finish his round in the recent $50,000 Bing Crosby national pro-amateur tournament.

Mayfield picked up, and here is why:

"I shot a 42 on the first nine holes at Pebble Beach. On the 10th hole, I faded my drive over the cliff down among the rocks on the beach.

"I had to stand with one foot 'way up in the air to hit the ball. It bounced against a rock, came back and struck me in the chest. From my chest, the ball bounced against another rock and came flying back at me and hit me in the foot.

"In the interest of speeding up play I put the ball in my pocket."

New Life Unfolding For Destitute Foxx

NEW YORK (AP)—Jimmy Foxx, jobless and destitute after dissipating his $250,000 baseball earnings, is looking forward to the "start of a new life" at the age of 50.

STAN LEONARD
. . . three strokes out

The former American League home run and batting king, brought here for a television show after it was learned he was broke and unable to pay his rent, said there have been offers of jobs and financial help since news of his plight was made public.

"My wife just called me from Miami," Foxx said, as tears came to his eyes. "She informed me of the many telegrams that arrived this morning. A number of them contained offers of jobs. I can't tell you how overjoyed I am . . . and how grateful."

One job offer came from a firm in Long Island. It would provide Foxx with a transportation job and a four-room apartment rent free for life.

Foxx never spent a day in the minor leagues. He began his career at the age of 17 with the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1925.

"My first year's salary was $2,000," he recalled with a smile. "Connie Mack, who managed and owned the club, raised me to $2,500 the next year, $3,000 the following year, then $5,000 then $7,500, then $10,000.

"In 1930 I signed a three-year contract calling for $50,000. When that contract expired, Mr. Mack raised me to $18,000 for the 1934 and 1935 seasons. I had captured the triple crown the previous year, winning the batting, home run and runs-batted-in championships.

"When I was traded to Boston after the 1935 season, Mr. Tom Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox, tore up my contract and gave me a new one for $25,000. The most I ever made in any one season was $27,000, after I led the league in batting and drove in 175 runs in 1938."

Ontario Adopts Ruling

Campbells Barred As Professionals

TORONTO (CP) — Don and Garnet Campbell, two brothers of the famous curling family from Avonlea, Sask., were barred from Ontario curling competitions Friday because they are considered professionals.

The brothers' names were not mentioned in a ruling adopted at a special Ontario Curling Association executive meeting, but it automatically prevents them from competing in the OCA competition.

The executive ruled that association members who act as paid curling instructors or receive other remuneration for their services can not play in OCA events.

Don has been an instructor at the Royal Canadian Curling Club here since the fall. Garnet has been giving exhibitions and instructions at clubs in Ontario.

The ruling involves others, such as the regular icemen at clubs who also act as instructors.

The ruling holds only in Ontario but may be sent on to the Dominion Curling Association as a recommendation. The brothers are still eligible to compete outside Ontario.

The four brothers won the Dominion championship in 1955 and placed second last year.

Cross Recovered

John Saris, 27, raises a cross from the freezing waters of the Hudson River in New York after he retrieved it in the annual ceremony of the Greek Orthodox Church. The mercury stood at a bone-chilling 22 degrees as Saris and another diver, clad only in trunks, plunged into the icy water.

Special Songs For Centenary

A special hymn and psalm will be used in B.C. churches at centennial services this year.

The hymn, written by Leonard J. Humphery of Nanaimo will be included in a service being planned by the B.C. Centennial Committee's religious acticities committee. The service will be given at many churches on the Centennial Day of Prayer, April 27.

The psalm is already known to many as the Veterans Psalm, written by Capt. George Read of Victoria.

The hymn, sung to the tune of St. George, "Come ye Thankful People," is in praise of the B.C. pioneers, particularly the first verse:

"Thanks, O Lord, to Thee we raise
For the treasure of our days,
For our pioneers so strong,
Who endured great hardship long
Homes to build within this place
And to found a future race,
Overcome fear and doubt
By their faithfulness devout."

The centennial service, which is being printed by the religious activities committee and distributed to all church organizations in B.C., can be adapted by each faith for presentation at regular religious ceremonies or at a public non-denominational service.

The Voice of One — By Rev. Frank S. Morley

Prayer Is Knowing God

As a youth in Sunday School I do not recall one single lesson on how to pray! Yet nothing is more important. Prayer is the way to a better world, a better Church, and a stronger life. Prayer is the highest power on earth. Prayer makes history. Prayer "moves mountains."

People are always asking me, "How should I pray? How can I make prayer real?" Everyone prays. Prayer is your thought pattern. You can't exist without praying. The world is being ruined by wrong prayer. Millions ruin their lives with wrong prayer. But everyone prays.

Most prayer is not addressed to God at all. Even then it may be disastrous. Take the following which is claimed to have been really found in the papers of a prominent member of Parliament. "O Lord, Thou knowest I have mine estates in the City of London, and likewise that I have lately purchased an estate in fee-simple in the County of Essex. I beseech Thee to preserve the two counties of Middlesex and Essex from fire and earthquake, and, as I have a mortgage in Hertfordshire, I beg of Thee likewise to have an eye of compassion on that county; for the rest of the counties, Thou mayest deal with them as Thou art pleased . . ." No wonder this man's life ended tragically.

Take the Lord's prayer as a model: 1. Start with God. Turn from your problem to God. 2. Think of God as your father. You are a child of God. He loves you. 3. Put first praise and thanksgiving. "Heaven" means "spirit," so God fills all things. Universal life and light surround you, fill you.

4. Notice the confident statements of the Lord's Prayer. Christ expresses His convictions. Many people go about saying, "I am miserable. I am poor. I am sick." Don't make negative, whining prayers. Don't doubt. Like the Psalmist, assert "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want . . . Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life . . ."

5. Make commitment central: "Thy will be done." Prayer is not an effort to change God, but to change self. God wills better things for us than we dream. We do not know what is best. God does. Prayer is alignment. Prayer is utter self-surrender.

6. Certainly bring petitions, but remember God answers need, not greed. 7. Ask God's forgiveness. Accept it. Don't dwell on your sins. The more a man talks about his besetting sin, the more it besets him. But to be forgiven, you must forgive.

8. Fellowship is absolutely necessary. Note the word "our" in the Lord's Prayer. The hardest thing in life is to love people. The hardest thing in the Church is not to raise money, but to make members love one another. Time and again I have been saved from hate by praying. Prayer is the only way to fellowship. Moreover, intercession is the noblest kind of prayer. It has enormous power. Here also prayer is not changing God's will, but changing a person so that God may help. In intercession, think of the person you want helped. Then hold them up before God with the utmost concentration of heart and mind.

Jesus instructed us to pray in His name. "Name" meant "nature" so we cannot pray selfishly or hatefully. "Always pray," said Christ. Pray on the street, at work, in the office, in the kitchen, at meetings. Make a habit of short prayers. Jesus instructed us not to get discouraged. Keep on praying. Prayer needs practice. It takes a life-time of learning.

Have regular times for prayer. Pray at morning and at night—the very first and last thing. Pray at church, but also in some mid-week group. Don't stop because you don't feel like it. That makes it all the more important.

Prayer is absolutely essential to knowing God. Prayer is friendship with God. Prayer puts life into relation with Divine goodness. It is the only way to the good life.

Railroads Feature Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) — Railroad shares featured a final hour recovery on the stock market after all groups had declined on sharply reduced trading.

Sales for the market as a whole were about half of Thursday's total.

The market made its low for industrial issues at 1 p.m. when their average was down about 3 points. The rails lost 1.12 points in the first hour and improved steadily until their average showed a net gain of 2.94 at the close. The carriers were helped by growing belief something will be done in Congress to aid the railroads when the present hearings are completed.

American telephone recovered all of a loss of nearly a point. Caterpillar Tractor turned a ⅞ point loss into a gain of 1⅛ points. Ingersoll-Rand halved a 2-point decline.

Similar movements went on throughout the market. Chrysler recovered most of a ⅝ point loss. Ford showed a gain after a loss of nearly a point. Shell Oil set a new low on a loss of nearly 2 points and recovered half of it. Du Pont came back from a fractional loss.

Gypsum Advances

MONTREAL (CP) — Stock prices moved lower. Trading was light in the industrials and moderate in the mines and oils.

The decline affected most groups. But Gypsum Lime, moving alone in the construction group, went against the trend with a gain of 2½ to a new high of 31½.

International Nickel dropped 2 points to 69½ among generally fractionally lower base metals. In refining oils, Imperial Oil declined 1½ to 39½ and McColl a point to 51.

Gatineau Power dipped 1⅝ to 28⅛ and Union Gas a point to 74 in the utility group. Other changes were mostly fractional losses.

Western oils closed higher after a generally steady day. Calgary Edmonton firmed ⅛ at 19½.

Penny Mines Active

TORONTO (CP) — Four mines, selling at less than 30 cents a share, featured trading on a softer stock market.

New Mylamaque, Arcadia Nickel, Boymar and Cody Reco had a combined turnover of 1,137,331 shares, or more than one-third of the entire volume of the market.

New Mylamaque, trading 474,350 shares, gained four cents at 28 cents. Arcadia was off 11 cents to 16 cents with a volume of 271,600 and Boymar added 4½ cents to 14 cents amid a turnover of 233,781 shares. Cody Reco gained five cents at 21 with a volume of 167,600. Western oils lost three-quarters of a point on index. Senior mines and medium-priced issues were generally easier.

CHICAGO (AP) — Fairly steady buying attributed to short-covering gave wheat futures prices one of their sharpest rallies of the week on the board of trade and kept them on the plus side of yesterday's closes throughout most of the session.

Shortly before the finish all the deliveries except March had gains of more than a cent a bushel.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — With Wall Street's close, disappointing close Thursday after such a promising start, the recent better trend in the London stock market was halted today.

In some cases where prices had been hoisted in anticipation of Wall Street maintaining its advance there was a sharp reversal. This was particularly noticeable in dollar securities and oil shares.

Gilt-edged securities, however, made steady progress and recorded widespread improvements. The feature of foreigners was the further sharp rise in German municipal bonds. Industrials generally were irregular.

'Curfew for Juveniles Unworkable'

What's Use of Enforcing Law For Sake of $1?—Blackstock

City Brewery Whistle Doesn't Mean a Thing

Police and social service officials here said yesterday a curfew for all persons under 18, which has been adopted by Seattle authorities, would help little in solving Victoria's juvenile crime problem.

Victoria would take a 9:30 p.m. curfew for those under 16, marked by a brewery whistle, but it is not workable, said Police Chief John Blackstock.

WARNING TO PARENTS

The present curfew requires police to take home unregistered found out after 9:30 p.m. unaccompanied by an adult and to warn their parents.

[illegible] and warnings, plus one for the lad and a fine of $1 imposed, Chief Blackstock said.

"It's the parents fault. They should know where their children are at night," he said. But what is the use of taking them home for a dollar?

The chief said he doubted that a curfew would have much effect on the young hoodlums who break and enter or take cars.

NOT STRICT ENOUGH

That type of youth usually comes from a broken home or belongs to parents who are not strict enough, he said.

He pointed out that a curfew would also have to offset good children's morning [illegible] lacrosse games at the YMCA.

"You can't be a prisoner the option with the good children and you have got to treat them all the same," Chief Blackstock said.

Police Chief H. J. Lawrence of Seattle recently introduced the curfew to combat a 26 per cent increase in juvenile crime. Which he said was largely due to juveniles. The chief said only juveniles with legitimate business will be allowed on the streets after 11 p.m.

MORE THAN HERE

David E. Woodworth, director of the Essex and [illegible] Services commission, said these juvenile problems complain crime increase than we have here and I don't think the parents contribute to such a large portion of crime here.

Most of the offenses of juveniles here are traffic, [illegible] incorrigibility and shoplifting. Which taxes place, [illegible] before 11 p.m., he said.

"I don't think there is a great enough time period for offenses on this area," he said.

"I like the suggestion that has been made that if a child has committed an offense police might be empowered to hold the child at the police station and have the parents come and get him."

PROBATION OFFICER

Mr. Hodson also urged that a probation officer be appointed to keep in touch with juvenile offenders and potential offenders to work with their parents and try to prevent further delinquency."

A full-qualified probation officer could be hired for less than another policeman and his work might stop enough juvenile delinquency to make a saving, he said.

Saanich and Victoria, he noted, have had to double their juvenile force in recent years.

The whole problem of juvenile crime, which makes full use of probation officers, commands more heads in industrial schools than Victoria alone, he said.

NOT MUCH GOOD

"I don't think a curfew is much good," said William Hodson, city welfare officer. The problem with these kids is a little more basic than solved by keeping them off the streets.

It might keep those youths "out of the public eye" who are out for devilment or just fooling around, but it would not stop those so maladjusted as to commit serious crimes, he said.

"It seems to me it would be a tremendous job to enforce a curfew," Mr. Hodson continued. "It is hard to tell whether these youths are 16 or 20."

Mrs. A. B. Thompson, past president of the Greater Victoria PTA Association said parents would have to be deputized to enforce a curfew, or the teenagers would have to form a council to police themselves.

A curfew, she said, might "stir up trouble" among teenagers.

"I think the teenagers today are a pretty decent lot," she said.

Chamber Says It with Flowers

Sometimes the law moves very quickly.

Ronald Dorrick, 521 Simcoe, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court to driving without a driver's licence.

"How long," asked Magistrate Henry C. Hall, "had you been driving without a licence?"

He was fined the usual $25.

What's Cooking!

Sweet and Sour Easy on Budget

Longing for the mornings to spend sleep. [illegible] this days routine. Does anybody else get up at 5:30 a.m.? I envy more than a few of our readers who say they feel the blissfully sleep till at least 10 o'clock. Isn't it funny how differently people are made? From this hideout only one other light goes on at this early hour of the morning. I can't figure out whether he's having breakfast or supper. Is he coming from or going to work? He gets our good wishes anyway.

Now what are we going to have to eat? Are you wondering? I've got an idea. You may not approve of it at all but I'm going to try it out anyway. Don't forget we are all in the same boat financially broke after the holiday season. Some body said this was a typical Chinese dish. I don't know if it is. I've cooked it for years and it's very tasty. Anyway if that's where it originated I'll take off my hats to the Chinese.

SWEET AND SOUR SPARE RIBS

(about 4 servings)

Two pounds spareribs, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon soya sauce, 2 table [illegible]

[illegible] rather carelessly please other wise you'll miss the point of the bones apart and hop them into [illegible] inch-length pieces.

[illegible] I ask my helpful husband to do it and I'm sure he will amuse you. Forget the egg white. Mix the beaten egg with the soya sauce, salt, pepper, [illegible] Dip the spareribs in this mixture so that they are well covered. Let them drain for an hour. Meanwhile make the sauce. Heat the sugar, vinegar and salt in a saucepan. Add the tomato juice, soya sauce, vinegar and sugar and simmer for about 15 minutes. Thicken with the blended flour by dropping the sauce to the boil again. If you make it properly it's very tasty.

[illegible] this sounds of ancient vintage is not altogether over-boiled a cake recipe. We don't [illegible] this kind of food very often do we? I for one am not [illegible] if you follow my advice you are not [illegible]

FESTIVAL CAKE

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

I'm very happy to report that the two best shows on TV in 1957 won honors in the seventh annual Sylvania TV awards.

Playhouse 90's "The Miracle Worker" story of the young Helen Keller, was named the best original play and Patty McCormack as the girl was chosen best supporting actress. And Jack Paar's show was named the best comedy series. Apart from that special awards for one-shots went to the Khrushchev interview on Face the Nation, the See It Now show on Marian Anderson and "Annie Get Your Gun."

Other awards included best actor Lee J. Cobb in Studio One's "No Deadly Medicine", best actress Kim Stanley in Studio One's "Traveling Lady," best supporting actor, Torin Thatcher in DuPont's "Beyond This Place", Steve Allen for variety, Dinah Shore for light music, Omnibus for educational TV, NBC for network news, See It Now for documentaries, Hallmark Hall of Fame for drama series, 20th Century for new series, Look Up and Live for religion, Let's Take a Trip for children, Matinee Theatre for daytime shows, James Lee for story adaptation in Omnibus, Samuel Jackson, and special awards to NBC Opera and Walt Wade Wood.

"There's snow on the screen."

* * *

TV BITS: Best show in today's funny doll line-up should be Club Oasis with Frank Sinatra and possibly Stan Freberg and Pat Suzuki. . . By way of I dare say, review, Playhouse 90 did a great job with "The 80 Yard Run" thanks mainly to a team performance by Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. . . CBS has renewed $64,000 Challenge through the summer but that may be all. . . CBS is thinking about a new one hour live drama series from New York next season and about cancelling Hotel Cosmopolitan and substituting a news show. . . Maria Callas will be a Gisele Fischer guest Feb. 4. . . Two days earlier there'll be a See It Now special on Harry Truman.

In Seattle, channel 5 claims it has six of the 30 top-rated shows. Cheyenne is first, Maverick second and the others are Disneyland, Lawrence Welk, the Lights and Wyatt Earp. . . Channel 5 also reports that You Asked For It will move to 9:30 Sundays effective Jan. 26, the day Sid Caesar starts at 8 p.m. . . Scottish commercial TV has run into more trouble. Roman Catholic Archbishop Gordon Gray of Edinburgh has advised his people to spend less time at TV because "a surfeit of amusement and recreation, especially when it is of a passive nature, can become gravely injurious to the spiritual and mental life of man."

Today's Highlights

3:30 New show, Primary Preview, in which Seattle civic candidates speak their pieces (channel 4).

6:30 New time for Men of Annapolis (channel 4).

7:00 New time for Boots and Saddles (channel 4).

'... Bustin' Out All Over'

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

A severe winter poses some really tough problems for gardeners—situations such as were brought about by the killing November frosts in 1955. But an abnormally mild fall and early winter, such as we have had this year, presents some equally awkward difficulties.

A number of my readers are very much concerned because their tulips, bulbous iris, hyacinths and other bulbs are sticking their noses through the soil surface weeks ahead of their normal schedule and may get nipped by a sharp frost. Fruit tree blossom is appearing in some cases, and these are in a most vulnerable condition.

As long as bulb growth confines itself to foliage only, I don't think there is too much to worry about. Most of the bulbs we grow hereabouts are fairly hardy, and even if the tips of the leaves get browned by frost, the plants will usually survive and flower normally. In any case, there isn't much we can do to help, as most of our bulbs are scattered all over the place, and there just isn't any way of rigging up any protection over them.

There is good reason, though, to worry over the too-early arrival of hyacinth shoots. These are normally the earliest of the large bulb flowers to come into bloom, and already the flower buds are forming in some locations. A combination of wet and freezing conditions could easily spell disaster.

A covering of bone-dry leaves or bracken topped with old sacking or plastic sheeting would protect the developing blooms from the weather. Trouble is, though, that such covering attracts slugs and snails, so it becomes necessary to put down little piles of slug bait among the plants. If you have only a few hyacinths, growing here and there in the garden, they may be covered individually with inverted flower pots, large jam jars, tin cans, or even hotcaps.

On wall-trained fruit trees, the easiest way to protect premature blossoms is to hang old sheets or tablecloths from the top of the wall, draping them over the tree. These protective drapes are best rigged up in advance, and dropped when the weather forecasts indicate night frosts. They must be rolled up again, of course, as soon as the danger period is passed.

Fruit trees growing right out in the open are much more difficult to protect, and the citrus fruit growers in California go to extraordinary lengths to guard the delicate blossoms, using smudge pots, braziers, and huge, powerful fans to keep the air in motion on frosty nighmts.

All these are much too involved and expensive for the backyard gardener, and about the only practicable method I know which might possibly do the trick is to spray these early blossoms with water as the temperature drops below freezing. Ice is a pretty good insulator, and I have known cases where fruit blossom has survived five degrees of frost after being given a protective coating of ice.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Offbeat Mishmash

Strange things, as Red Buttons used to say, are happening. Shirley Saunders and Bob Kardell got engaged—on "People Are Funny." They're the first couple selected by Univac to get engaged following post-hypnotic suggestion. The first Univac-selected engaged couple called it off, but they didn't have hypnosis to bolster their resolve. We'll just have to wait and see how this Univac wedding works out.

An adult reader complains she had to miss "Beauty and the Beast" because her nine-year-old son wanted to watch "Combat Sergeant" instead. Bill Casper, the golf pro, fired such a rapid round of golf that he won the $50,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament before the show went on a national TV network and the finish had to be shown on film.

* * *

And "Omnibus," which has been a Sunday afternoon fixture for years suddenly bobbed up on Tuesday night where we had grown accustomed to George Gobel's face. Even more remarkable, Alistair Cooke, showed up in a straw hat and a blazer.

"Suburban Revue," which is what the untimely "Omnibus" was called, was billed as an examination, presumably satinic, of life in the suburbs which sounded like a perfectly splendid idea. But it was no such thing. It was a mishmash, bits of which sounded as if they had been left over from other "Omnibus" shows.

* * *

For instance, the opening number was a parody on musical comedy of the '20s called the "Gladiola Girl," largely taken from "Lend an Ear" and I got the oddest feeling that maybe this was a leftover from the "Omnibus" earlier show on American musical comedy. Well, there were a few nice satiric pokes but the musical comedies in the '20s weren't really that bad.

The only really inspired comedy during the hour was contributed by a young couple named Elaine May and Mike Nichols who have been seen before on TV. These two do a bit on teen-age seduction which—to quote one of their own lines—"just knocks me out."

"You're gonna say," says the guy at one point, "I wouldn't respect you. Let me tell you I would respect you like carr-azee."

"Ya sure you wouldn't just be grateful?" asks the girl. The pawings and posturings and language of this bit is freshly observed and trenchant and marvellously funny comedy.

It's avant-garde humor as if the "Omnibus" crowd had heard that comedy was in short supply this year (as indeed it is) and decided to fry a little. The connection with the suburbs, though, was tenuous and Bert Lahr's old woodchopper act has been done too often on TV and has lost its bite, anyhow.

I must say I think the idea of thrusting an occasional "Omnibus" into the outer world away from the intellectual ghetto of Sunday afternoon is a sound one.

* * *

And, while on the offbeat programs, the Bing Crosby and his friends clambake from Pebble Beach was pretty limp. The combination of excellent golf on one of the world's toughest courses, comedy and song and a fashion show, sounded like quite a dish. But it turned out to be an awfully loose-jointed and attenuated hour and a half.

The new Mrs. Crosby, looking mighty cute and chic and slim, described some dresses. There was a bit of merry badinage between Bob Hope and Mr. Crosby. There was some stirring putting, particularly one heart-breaker by Lloyd Mangrum which hung on the lip of the cup and didn't drop.

You mustn't think that golf and song and comedy necessarily don't mix, because they've been mixed successfully before, notably in one of those '20s musical comedies called "Follow Thru" which the "Omnibus" crowd was poking fun at. But, as I recall, the putts dropped in that one; they didn't hang on the lip.

Indians Arming . . . . . . To Repel KKK

'We'll Wipe Out the Klan'

MAXTON, N.C. (UP) — Croatan Indians of this small community armed themselves yesterday to repel a threatened Ku Klux Klan rally and cross-burning aimed at halting racial mixing of whites and redskins.

Klansmen who burned two crosses elsewhere in Robeson County earlier this week announced they would meet outside Maxton tonight for another cross burning as a "warning" to the Indians.

Hardware stores reported sales of guns and ammunition to the normally peaceful Croatans skyrocketed after the KKK announcement, and a spokesman for the Indians said they would "wipe out" the white-robed klansmen if they go ahead with the rally.

Some officials said feeling among the Indians, who make up about one-third of Robeson County's population, was so intense that the Klan demonstration probably would be cancelled.

But a Klan leader, the Rev. James Cole of Marion, S.C., told the United Press he saw "no reason" why the rally should not be held as scheduled.

The Maxton board of commissioners at a special meeting Wednesday night unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the Klan and calling upon all citizens to stay away from the rally. Maxton has a population of about 2,000.

Police Chief Bob Fisher said his force would make every effort to prevent violence.

"We have always had good race relations here and we don't intend to let any outside group stir up trouble with our Indians," he said.

When both declarer and defender seem to be following the same line of play, it is safe to conclude that somebody is making a mistake. It is almost axiomatic that good defence is a matter of attempting to fathom what declarer is trying to do and taking steps to circumvent it. Successful practice of the art of deception depends upon making the opponents believe you are trying to do something other than your real aim.

It was clear to South that West's opening lead was likely to be a singleton. If so, he was in danger of being set two tricks. Obviously, any attempt to draw trumps would be countered by a diamond return, enabling the defenders to win two spades, two diamond ruffs and the ace of hearts.

How could declarer persuade the opponents to do for him what he could not do for himself? South won the first trick with dummy's king, dropping the diamond seven as a bit of camouflage to mask the true distribution of that suit. Then he led a low heart from dummy.

He hoped to convince the opponents that his urgent desire was to use one or more of dummy's trumps to take care of a heart loser. East fell for the ruse. If declarer was trying to hold onto dummy's trumps, then the defenders should try to extract them, East reasoned. So he hopped up with the ace of hearts, cashed the ace and king of spades and led another heart, expecting that West could win the trick and remove dummy's last trump.

However, declarer had the heart king and was able to trump his remaining heart in dummy, get back to his hand by ruffing a club, draw West's last trump and win the balance of the tricks. South's psychological coup had achieved a spectacular success.
